

Stacey A. Brady

Member of Special Counsel

Stacey Brady practices in the area of general corporate law with a focus on pass-through entities and their taxation.

She has extensive experience negotiating and preparing operating agreements for complex limited liability company structures and joint ventures. She also counsels clients regularly on executive compensation matters, including all forms of equity-based plans, and reviews and prepares plan documents. She has considerable experience structuring tax-free reorganizations and real estate transactions with limited liability companies and partnerships, including like-kind exchange transactions.

She has represented clients in connection with tax matters before federal, state and local taxing authorities.

P: 336-370-8844

sbrady@schellbray.com

Practice Areas

General Corporate

Pass-Through Entities

Taxation

Mergers and Acquisitions

Education

Clemson University, B.A., summa cum laude, 1995. The Clemson University Honors Program, senior departmental honors

University of North Carolina, J.D., with honors, 1998. North Carolina Journal of International Law and Commercial Regulation

Bar Admissions

North Carolina

Community and Civic Activities

Holy Trinity Episcopal Church Environmental Stewardship Commission, former Chair

Volunteer coaching and non-profit board service

Awards and Publications

The Best Lawyers in America, corporate, tax, 2025

Business North Carolina, Legal Elite, business, 2023

Business North Carolina, Legal Elite, tax/estate planning, 2016

Member of the North Carolina Bar Association's committee that was responsible for drafting the new North Carolina Limited Liability Company Act that took effect on January 1, 2014

Drafting LLC and Other Unincorporated Association Contract, Wake Forest University School of Law Contract Law Seminar, 2005

Tenant in Common Interests and Like Kind Exchanges, Like Kind Real Estate Exchanges in North Carolina (Lorman seminar), 2004

Tax Considerations for Choice of Entity, National Business Institute (NBI) seminar, 2002